Terrorism III: Advanced Counterterrorism Strategies

As of 1/1/2009 the Governor's Office of Emergency Services is now the California Emergency Management Agency (CalEMA). CSTI is the all hazards trainer for the new agency

DATES: February 3-6, 2009
June 2-5, 2009

LOCATION: C.S.T.I. San Luis Obispo
Long Beach

Prerequisite Courses: Terrorism I and II

Graduates of the two prerequisite courses can add to their knowledge and skills by enrolling in CSTI's new and revised Terrorism III course. The CSTI certificate program culminates with Terrorism III which offers a highly interactive training curriculum that provides students the opportunity to participate in a simulated war game designed to compare and contrast one team's pro-active force protection methods against a dedicated adversary's sophisticated attack plan.

The Blue Team, which represents law enforcement and emergency management agencies, is tasked with preventing an attack against a designated target. Their short-term objectives include protecting the target through the implementation of a wide range of security measures. Their key goal of prevention requires the application of basic and advanced counterterrorism and anti-terrorism strategies to ensure the effective utilization of the Intelligence Cycle. The Red Team, which represents a terrorist cell, is tasked with developing comprehensive operational plans for a successful attack. This team functions and plans "through the eyes of the terrorist," while infusing terrorist behavior and tradecraft to ultimately create an attack plan which identifies and challenges the gaps and flaws of the Blue Team's strategies. The course includes specific training modules designed to fully prepare both teams for their assigned tasks and responsibilities.
